

... Let's Go

By LARRY MACARAY

One of the most gifted and mature artists in Southern California now lives in Torrance. Willie Suzuki is an old friend of mine, going back to Long Beach State College days when we both were art majors in a relatively new and small college.

How fortunate for El Camino College students to be able to take watercolor, oil painting, or life drawing classes from Willie Suzuki. The drawing and painting students turn out work that is quite advanced and highly creative.

Currently, one of Suzuki's paintings, "The Hat," is on exhibition at the Newport Harbor High School Show. It received honorable mention in the oil painting category. There was a purchase prize and an honorable mention, so it must have been very close in the judging.

IN JANUARY, Suzuki had a one-man show of his paintings and drawing at the Comara Gallery, 8475 Melrose Place, in Los Angeles. The paintings were very loosely treated impressions of children playing different types of games in the playground. The colors were in warm reds, yellows, and striking introductions of white areas that were quite exciting.

I remember when he first began to develop this idea of children's games as a major theme for his exhibition. He was enthusiastically working with children on the playground last summer and the warm sympathetic feelings he has for children seem to emerge from these last few paintings.

SUZUKI'S awards have been many. The 1959 Phelan Award, the Los Angeles County Museum Prize, the Catalina Art Festival Purchase Prize, the Westside Jewish Center Purchase Prize, and many others.

He has been represented exclusively by the Comara Gallery for several years.

I heard that the Torrance High School Senior Class is voting this week on the painting they will give to the school as a gift. It has become a fine tradition for the graduating class at THS to add an oil painting to the art collection that hangs in the THS auditorium. Hope to have a photo of the winning painting next week, as well as some biographical material on the artist.

RECEIVED A letter from Ricardo Fradera. He's the artist I mentioned last week that I met in Copenhagen. He is living in Sweden now, but plans to be in Barcelona in July when my travel group plans to be there. He is quite excited about being able to show us around his home town of Barcelona and introduce us to his friends. I am anxious to meet Santi-Suros, who is now president of the Asociacion de Artistas Actuales de Barcelona.

Latest word to our travel group from the American College in Rome is that we will probably be able to have an audience with Pope John during our stay there. A great deal, of course, depends on his schedule and whether he will be at the Vatican or at his summer palace, a few miles outside of Rome. We had an audience with Pope John in 1959 at his summer palace and what a pleasant shock it was to see how people demonstrated their affection for him — cheers and yells — almost as we would express our admiration for an All-American full-back.

Please write in to me at The Torrance HERALD and let me know about any art shows or events so I can mention them. Would appreciate any questions or inquiries on traveling in Europe.

A Closer Look

A resounding television explosion that promises significant and long range implications is being heard around the world.

Until recently the United States had more TV sets than all the rest of the world combined. Now, according to a recent United States Information Agency report, TV sets in overseas countries number over 65 million, with the rate of acquisition proceeding at the startling rate of 12 million a year.

The free world leads the communist bloc countries by a substantial margin, 54 million TV sets to 11 million, again excluding the United States and Canada. But TV is playing an ever increasing role in the war of ideologies.

EAST GERMAN authorities now claim that their TV programs can reach a potential audience of 3 million people in West Germany, and that in fact 42 per cent of the potential viewers in Bavaria tune to East Zone TV programs frequently or regularly. West German officials have reported that a group of counter-revolutionaries in East Germany were arrested last year for producing 2,000 TV antennae capable of receiving West German programs.

A TV program provided by the USA, Let's Learn English, has been enormously successful in Austria, with response to the program breaking all previous records. Textbooks prescribed to accompany the course were sold out in a day, many requests coming from Iron Curtain countries of Czechoslovakia, Hungary and Yugoslavia.

EDUCATIONAL television is also booming, with more and more countries developing the medium to further education and in an attempt to eradicate illiteracy. Japan leads the world with almost 100 ETV stations. The United States has 68. A boon to the growth of television abroad has been the development of a 23-inch transistor TV receiver for use in areas where conventional sources of electrical power is unavailable.

The most rapid TV growth has been in Japan where last year four million new TV sets came into use, placing Japan second only to the United States. The United Kingdom, long second, now ranks third in the number of sets in use.

Ninety per cent of the people in the United Kingdom can now receive TV programs and most people spend about 16 hours a week watching, 52 per cent of the time to the government-chartered BBC, 48 per cent to the commercial stations.

NON-ARAB AFRICA, of course, trails the rest of the world with but 51,000 sets receiving programs from 10 stations. But most African governments are taking steps to launch extensive TV operations, and several more are expected to be on the air by the end of the year.

The success of the United States' communications satellites, Telstar and Relay, underscores the significance of the world-wide television explosion by bringing imminently closer the day when our beleaguered globe becomes even smaller and when continental and racial differences will become subject to a cultural and social homogenization inconceivable to most of us only a few years ago.

Vroman Heads Armed Forces Day Luncheon

Invitations were mailed this week to approximately 200 guests of honor to the Torrance Armed Forces Day luncheon, it was reported by Robert Vroman, luncheon committee chairman.

The luncheon, which is an annual event for military and civic dignitaries following the parade, will be held this year on May 18 at 1:30 p.m. at the Fort MacArthur Officers' Club in San Pedro.

The luncheon will be co-sponsored by Ryan Aeronautical Co. of San Diego, and H-Shear Corporation of Torrance. Vroman has been named again this year to the luncheon committee post by Fred Rathert, of Ryan, who is the general chairman for the patriotic event.

Distinguished guest of honor at the luncheon and principal speaker will be Norman S. Paul, Assistant Secretary of Defense. Paul will also be Parade Grand Marshal. The parade will be held prior to the luncheon in Torrance, beginning at 10 a.m.

This is Vroman's third year on the parade staff. A native of Winnipeg, Canada, he became a naturalized citizen of the U.S. in 1962.

Coming to the South Bay area in 1956, he has been active with the Torrance Chamber and Junior Chamber of Commerce. He was JayCee president in 1959-60.

Vroman is active as the Torrance annual Pasadena Rose Parade float chairman, and is co-chairman of Torrance's Rancho Days to be held in August.

He and his wife, Sheila, make their home at 3217 W. Carson St., with their daughter, Wendy.

Students Present Concert

Under the direction of Donnelly Penn and Roland Large, music department students at West High School will present a spring concert tomorrow evening at 8.

The four musical groups which will participate are: choir and mixed chorus, varsity band, girls glee club and chamber orchestra.

Tickets will be necessary for admission and are available through music students or the music department without charge.

Syndicate Wins District Bonds

A syndicate headed by Security First National Bank was awarded $1,000,000 worth of Torrance Unified School District bonds with a winning bid of 2.938 per cent.

Other members of the syndicate include Wells Fargo Bank, Blyth & Co., Inc., R. H. Moulton & Co., and William R. Staats & Co.
